I’m a student and tested positive for COVID-19.

What happens next?

1. Complete the COVID-19 Self-Report Form.
   The information goes to the Office of Institutional Research and is used to notify:
   - AU Medical Clinic. Clinic staff, working with the Department of Social Work, will contact you to conduct contact tracing.
   - Facilities Management. They will disinfect the spaces where you have been on campus.
   - Campus Safety. They monitor information about the prevalence of COVID-19 on campus and will share this information anonymously as needed.

2. If you live on-campus or need to quarantine on-campus:
   - The AU Medical Clinic will work with University Housing to consider alternate accommodations for you.
   - University Housing will coordinate with Tiger Dining to ensure you have meals delivered to the residence hall.

3. Let your instructors know you will not be in class.
   - It is up to you if want to tell your instructors you tested positive for COVID-19. Many students will be able to continue their studies remotely and may elect not to share their diagnosis. However, instructors will follow their regular procedures for working with students who need to miss class due to an illness.
   - Your instructor will ask you to complete the COVID-19 Self-Report Form. You will be provided with a confirmation message you can share to show that the form was completed.

4. Notify your close contacts.
   - Anyone who had close contact (15 or more minutes, 6 feet apart or less) with you need to be contacted to let them know they have been exposed to COVID-19.

5. Report your results on the Exposure Notification app.
   - In addition to your self-report, you should report your positive COVID-19 test on your GuideSafe™ Exposure Notification App. This voluntary, anonymous action will notify other Exposure Notification App users in our community so they can quickly quarantine or seek testing or treatment.

6. You can return to campus when all three of the following are met:
   - You have spent at least 10 calendar days in self-isolation.
   - You have been fever-free for at least 24 hours without using fever-reducing medication.
   - Your symptoms have improved.
   - Note: You will receive an email from the AU Medical Clinic that provides the date when you can return to campus.
