To the Class of 2021,

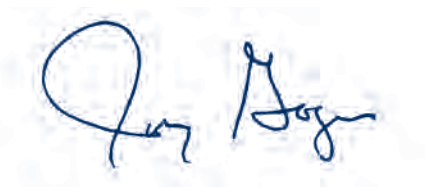

On behalf of the faculty, administration and staff at Auburn University, I offer my sincerest congratulations to those of you receiving your degree this semester. You have made it through times of extraordinary challenges and adapted to changes that our university could never have imagined.

While the COVID-19 pandemic has affected us all profoundly, I am incredibly proud of the resilience you have shown during the past academic year. I thank each of you for your strength, understanding, flexibility and steadfast commitment to learning.

As an Auburn graduate, you have distinguished yourself in so many ways. Your endeavors have brought distinction to our beloved university. As you make plans toward beginning your career, I sincerely urge you to reap the benefits that come with attaining one of the finest educations available. Earning a college degree does not signal the end of the learning experience. Continue asking questions throughout life and never stop learning.

During your time here, you lived an Auburn experience that was all your own. Those memories of Auburn will become more treasured as the years pass. Wherever you go in life, a part of this great university goes with you. While you are not alone in earning an Auburn degree today, you are, and will always be, a member of the Auburn Family.

Congratulations and War Eagle!

ALMA MATER

On the rolling plains of Dixie
'Neath the sun kissed sky
Proudly stands our Alma Mater
Banners high.

To thy name we'll sing thy praise
From hearts that love so true
And pledge to thee our loyalty
The ages through.

We hail thee, Auburn, and we vow
To work for thy just fame,
And hold in memory as we do now
Thy cherished name.

Composed by Bill Wood, 1924
Word Revision, Emma O'Rear Foy, 1960

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

O say can you see,
by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed
at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars,
through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched,
were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare,
the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night
that our flag was still there.
O say does that star-spangled
banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free
and the home of the brave?

Music by John Stafford Smith, 1780
Lyrics by Francis Scott Key, 1814
Adopted as the national anthem of the United States, 1931

He is a respected leader in the banking community, currently serving as Chairman of the National Bankers Association. In 2018, he was named to the Federal Reserve Bank's Seventh District Community Depository Institutions Advisory Council (CDIAC). Kelly was also selected to become a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Chairman's Advisory Committee on Community Banking, which is charged with providing advice and recommendations to the FDIC on a broad range of community banking policy and regulatory matters. Kelly has testified as an expert witness before the U.S. Congressional House Financial Services subcommittee on consumer protection and financial institutions and has provided input to the House Financial Services full committee on COVID-19 listening session. Also, Kelly served as an advisor to the Secretary of Treasury and White House Staff during COVID-19.

Kelly's leadership in various organizations has culminated in him being selected as the chairperson of the Auburn University Engineering Alumni Council. In this role, he works with a successful group of alumni including many CEO's to assist the dean of the college with research and development, fundraising, academic achievement and overall guidance to the college to become the best student-centered program in America. Kelly is the author of a financial planning book, Prepared: Before I Let Go, that will be published in 2021.

Prior to banking, Kelly enjoyed a 27-year career as an electric utility business leader in numerous roles within Southern Company. His last role entailed negotiating acquisitions of large renewable solar projects valued at $3.4 billion in partnership value. In 2018, Kelly was inducted as the 137th Distinguished Auburn Engineer. On Feb. 22, 2020, he was inducted into the State of Alabama Engineering Hall of Fame.

During his college days at Auburn, Kelly was a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Incorporated. Kelly has given back to Auburn through the creation of the Kenneth Kelly Endowment Scholarship for a minority student to study engineering. In addition, the Academic Excellence Program lobby area was named in his honor within the new Brown- Kopel Student Achievement Center in the Samuel Ginn College of Engineering.

Kelly grew up in Eufaula, Alabama, and received an electrical engineering degree from Auburn University and completed the executive MBA program at the University of Alabama.

I believe in the human touch, which cultivates sympathy with my fellow men and mutual helpfulness and brings happiness for all.

The Education to Accomplish Growth in Life Experiences for Success, or EAGLES Program, is a comprehensive transition program (CTP) for students with intellectual disabilities. The program provides a postsecondary education opportunity for the EAGLES to engage in a two or four-year campus experience to help students achieve their employment and independent living goals upon successful completion of the program.

The EAGLES program is a non-degreed program focusing on (1) academic enrichment, (2) personal and social skills, (3) independent living skills, (4) health and wellness, and (5) integrated work experiences. Students in the program receive an inclusive postsecondary education providing them with an enriching and rewarding Auburn experience as they prepare to transition to gainful employment and independent living. Traditional college students who are a part of the WINGS peer mentor (Warmhearted Individuals Nurturing Great Success) program facilitate inclusion and mentorship across all domains of the program. The EAGLES program curricula are structured to help students become contributing members of society through their career interests both now and in the future.

"Attending Auburn University was something I dreamed about for many years and the EAGLES program gave me that chance. This program has helped me grow in many areas of my life."
-Quin Thomas

"The EAGLES program has given me the college experience while helping me learn different job skills and how to live on my own. I appreciated learning from WINGS peer mentors and enjoyed being on campus with friends."
-Elizabeth Preston

"The EAGLES program has helped me grow in many ways that will help me be successful in my future. I have found so much joy in learning and growing with my peers."
-Kyle Murberger

"What Auburn means to me is that it is like family and the EAGLES program is everything to me because they gave me a chance to go to college to learn life skills."
-Sean Patrick Teachworth

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Academic regalia worn during graduation is based on attire from the 12th and 13th centuries when universities were being established. Academic dress and accoutrements have been used in higher education in the United States since colonial times. In 1895, an intercollegiate commission adopted a standardized code for the use of academic gowns, hoods, and caps, which included regulation of style and materials. Colors were prescribed to represent different fields of learning. Since then, the majority of colleges and universities in the United States, including Auburn, have upheld the code.

GOWNS

Except for a few universities, academic gowns are all black. The bachelor's gown is the simplest of the three types. The master's gown is similar but has sleeves with an extra long extension. Representing the highest degree, the doctoral gown is fuller throughout and has pleated bell-shaped sleeves. It is trimmed with a velvet band that circles the neck and descends the front, and it has velvet bars on the sleeves.

ACADEMIC HOODS

Academic hoods have endured as the sign of a scholar, and increased symbolism through color and material. Master's hoods are edged in velvet in the color of the candidate's major field. The hood's satin lining shows Auburn's official colors. A doctoral hood is longer and larger than the master's. A doctor of philosophy's hood has dark blue velvet-bound edges and the doctor of audiology has green.

The orange and blue satin lining shows that the degree was conferred at Auburn University. The faculty who march in the academic processional show a range of colors marking their diverse fields, degrees, and institutions.

The traditional rule for academic hoods is that a candidate for a degree should not wear the hood until the degree is conferred. However, at Auburn, master's degrees are conferred en masse, therefore degree candidates wear hoods throughout the ceremony. Doctoral degree recipients are hooded by their major professor during the ceremony. These candidates do not wear the hood during the academic processional, but receive their hood when the degree is conferred.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

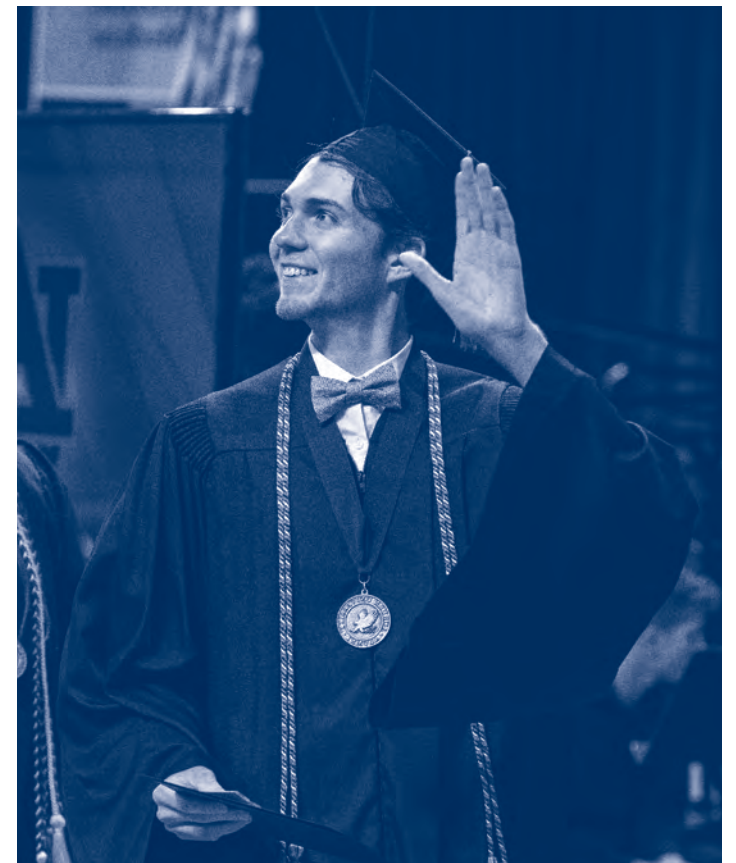

CAPS AND TASSELS

A black mortar board is the typical headwear worn, with some faculty wearing black tams. All caps have tassels. Students earning a bachelor's degree have tassel colors representing their fields. They begin the ceremony with the tassels on the right front side; after all degrees are conferred, they are instructed to move the tassels to the left side. Faculty and candidates for master's and doctoral degrees already wear their gold tassels on the left side.

STOLES, CORDS, AND MEDALS

In addition to the orange stoles worn by student marshals, some graduates wear regalia signifying academic achievements or membership in organizations, primarily academic honor societies. Students graduating summa cum laude, magna cum laude, or cum laude wear yellow cords. The Honors College recognizes its graduates with silver medals. Students inducted into Phi Kappa Phi, an honor society incorporating all fields of study, may wear cords of interwoven gold and blue. Some schools and colleges have honor societies unique to their discipline, and students selected for membership wear stoles, cords or medallions representing them. Like hoods, each color and pattern is unique to the honor.

MACE

In ancient Rome, what would later be called a mace was carried at the head of processing civil authorities. By the Middle Ages, the Catholic Church similarly used a mace, which also became associated with the civil authority of monarchies. Today, the United Kingdom’s House of Commons still presents a mace to mark the opening of daily sessions being open and legal. The U.S. House of Representatives adopted this practice in 1789, establishing the tradition of the Sergeant at Arms carrying the mace into the chamber to be placed near the Speaker of the House.

As an established symbol of authority, maces in the academic setting were adopted to show that a president represents the governing body of the school. Maces are used in graduation ceremonies to demonstrate that a school has the legal authority to grant degrees. Auburn’s mace was created in fall 2015 from the wood of the beloved Auburn Oaks, representing the Board of Trustees’ legal authority and linking to a symbol that is laden with meaning to the Auburn Family. The Auburn mace is approximately 42 inches tall and is carried by the macebearer, one of the faculty leaders from the graduation committee.

GONFALONS

Gonfalons are banners that originated in medieval Italy to identify a state or office. At Auburn commencements, each college and school is represented by a unique gonfalon, carried into the ceremony by a student marshal selected from the graduating class. The university gonfalon is carried by the faculty marshal. Additionally, smaller gonfalons stand on the edge of the floor to designate the seating area for each participating college and school.

Owing much to the past, Auburn’s greater debt remains ever to the future.

Auburn University today is a comprehensive land-, sea- and space-grant institution—among the few that hold that distinction—occupying more than 1,840 acres and helping fulfill the dreams of more than 30,000 students. The university began, though, as the small, more humble East Alabama Male College, which was chartered in 1856 and opened its doors in 1859 as a private liberal arts institution. From 1861 to 1866, the college was closed because of the Civil War. The college had begun an affiliation with the Methodist Church before the war. Due to dire financial straits, the church transferred legal control of the institution to the state in 1872, making it the first land-grant college in the south to be established separate from the state university. It thus became the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Alabama.

A land-grant college or university is an institution that has been designated by its state legislature or Congress to receive the benefits of the Morrill Acts of 1862 and 1890.

Old Main

Samford Hall

The original mission of these institutions, as set forth in the first Morrill Act, was to teach agriculture, military tactics, mechanical arts, as well as classical studies, so that members of the working classes could obtain a liberal, practical education.

Women were admitted in 1892, making Auburn the oldest four-year, coeducational school in the state and the second-oldest in the Southeast. In 1899, the name was again changed to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. In 1960, the school officially acquired the name it has long been called and one more in keeping with its location, size and mission—Auburn University. The institution has experienced its greatest growth since World War II, and now has more than 230,000 alumni and over 320,000 degrees awarded.

Chartered in 1856, Auburn University opened in 1859 and became affiliated with the Methodist Church. Throughout the years, the institution has held four official names:

- East Alabama Male College (1856-72)
- Agricultural and Mechanical College (1872-99)
- Alabama Polytechnic Institute (1899-1960)
- Auburn University (1960-present)

Auburn University at Montgomery (AUM) was established as a separately administered branch campus in 1967. The institution has developed rapidly, especially since moving to a 500-acre campus east of Montgomery in 1971. Fall 2019 enrollment at AUM was approximately 5,323.

ALMA MATER

On the rolling plains of Dixie
'Neath the sun kissed sky
Proudly stands our Alma Mater
Banners high.

To thy name we'll sing thy praise
From hearts that love so true
And pledge to thee our loyalty
The ages through.

We hail thee, Auburn, and we vow
To work for thy just fame,
And hold in memory as we do now
Thy cherished name.

Composed by Bill Wood, 1924
Word Revision, Emma O'Rear Foy, 1960

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

O say can you see,
by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed
at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars,
through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched,
were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare,
the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night
that our flag was still there.
O say does that star-spangled
banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free
and the home of the brave?

Music by John Stafford Smith, 1780
Lyrics by Francis Scott Key, 1814

HONORARY DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

WALTER S. (WALT) WOLTOSZ

After graduating from high school, Walt Woltosz joined the U.S. Air Force and spent nearly four years in the Strategic Air Command. He was tapped for a college/commissioning program and sent to Auburn University in 1967. Walt graduated from Auburn University with a bachelor's degree in aerospace engineering in 1969 and later earned his master's in administrative science from the University of Alabama at Huntsville in 1976, and his master's in aerospace engineering from Auburn in 1977.

Walt worked in the aerospace industry from 1971-1983, developing simulation and modeling software to design solid propellant rocket motors and missile systems. In 1981, Walt and his wife, Ginger, founded Words+, Inc., a leader in developing augmentative communication systems for people with severe disabilities. When ALS compromised Sir Stephen Hawking's ability to communicate was impacted, it was the Words+ Equalizer and Words+ EZ Keys programs that allowed Hawking to continue his groundbreaking work and to write several books, including his first called, "A Brief History of Time". Walt served as CEO of Words+ until 1996 when he and Ginger founded Simulations Plus, and Walt became an acknowledged leader in the emerging science of computational biopharmaceutics. Today, Simulations Plus products are used by more than 200 pharmaceutical firms, including the world's Top 25. Walt served as a technical assistant on several films, and he has written two screenplays with his son, Daniel, and co-directed/co-produced one of them as a full-length feature film. Walt has a passion for flying; he owns and pilots a Cessna Citation Encore. He holds an Airline Transport Pilot certificate, as well as a helicopter rating.

Walt currently serves on the Auburn University Foundation Board, the Auburn Alumni Engineering Council McCrary Institute for Cyber and Infrastructure Security Advisory Board, and the Samuel Ginn College of Engineering Strategic Leadership Team, and the Auburn University Research Advisory Board. In 2008, Walt was inducted into the Alabama Engineering Hall of Fame, and in 2016, he received a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Auburn Alumni Association.

Walt and Ginger's support for Auburn University is broad and impactful. They are very generous to the Ginn College of Engineering, Gogue Performing Arts Center, Athletics, College of Veterinary Medicine, the College of Architecture, Design and Construction, the Division of Student Affairs and War Eagle Motorsports.

The Woltoszes are members of Auburn University's 1856, Petrie and Foy Societies, Athletics' Pat Dye Society, as well as the Samuel Ginn College of Engineering's Eagles, Keystone and Ginn Societies.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Academic regalia worn during graduation is based on attire from the 12th and 13th centuries when universities were being established. Academic dress and accoutrements have been used in higher education in the United States since colonial times. In 1895, an intercollegiate commission adopted a standardized code for the use of academic gowns, hoods, and caps, which included regulation of style and materials. Colors were prescribed to represent different fields of learning. Since then, the majority of colleges and universities in the United States, including Auburn, have upheld the code.

GOWNS

Except for a few universities, academic gowns are all black. The bachelor's gown is the simplest of the three types. The master's gown is similar but has sleeves with an extra long extension. Representing the highest degree, the doctoral gown is fuller throughout and has pleated bell-shaped sleeves. It is trimmed with a velvet band that circles the neck and descends the front, and it has velvet bars on the sleeves.

ACADEMIC HOODS

Academic hoods have endured as the sign of a scholar, and increased symbolism through color and material. Master's hoods are edged in velvet in the color of the candidate's major field. The hood's satin lining shows Auburn's official colors. A doctoral hood is longer and larger than the master's. A doctor of philosophy's hood has dark blue velvet-bound edges and the doctor of audiology has green.

The orange and blue satin lining shows that the degree was conferred at Auburn University. The faculty who march in the academic processional show a range of colors marking their diverse fields, degrees, and institutions.

The traditional rule for academic hoods is that a candidate for a degree should not wear the hood until the degree is conferred. However, at Auburn, master's degrees are conferred en masse, therefore degree candidates wear hoods throughout the ceremony. Doctoral degree recipients are hooded by their major professor during the ceremony. These candidates do not wear the hood during the academic processional, but receive their hood when the degree is conferred.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

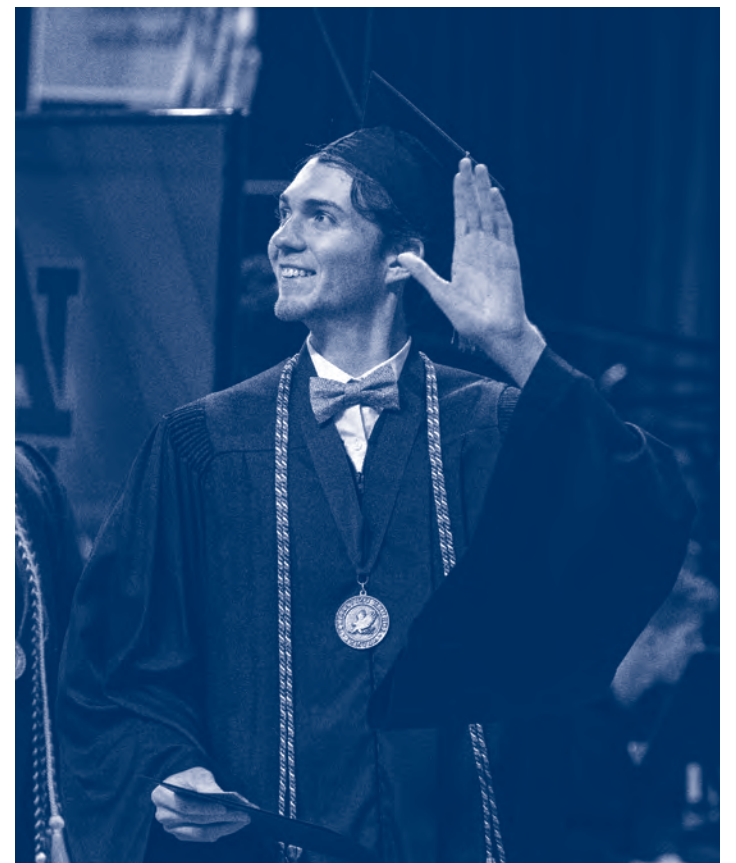

CAPS AND TASSELS

A black mortar board is the typical headwear worn, with some faculty wearing black tams. All caps have tassels. Students earning a bachelor's degree have tassel colors representing their fields. They begin the ceremony with the tassels on the right front side; after all degrees are conferred, they are instructed to move the tassels to the left side. Faculty and candidates for master's and doctoral degrees already wear their gold tassels on the left side.

STOLES, CORDS, AND MEDALS

In addition to the orange stoles worn by student marshals, some graduates wear regalia signifying academic achievements or membership in organizations, primarily academic honor societies. Students graduating summa cum laude, magna cum laude, or cum laude wear yellow cords. The Honors College recognizes its graduates with silver medals. Students inducted into Phi Kappa Phi, an honor society incorporating all fields of study, may wear cords of interwoven gold and blue. Some schools and colleges have honor societies unique to their discipline, and students selected for membership wear stoles, cords or medallions representing them. Like hoods, each color and pattern is unique to the honor.

MACE

In ancient Rome, what would later be called a mace was carried at the head of processing civil authorities. By the Middle Ages, the Catholic Church similarly used a mace, which also became associated with the civil authority of monarchies. Today, the United Kingdom’s House of Commons still presents a mace to mark the opening of daily sessions being open and legal. The U.S. House of Representatives adopted this practice in 1789, establishing the tradition of the Sergeant at Arms carrying the mace into the chamber to be placed near the Speaker of the House.

As an established symbol of authority, maces in the academic setting were adopted to show that a president represents the governing body of the school. Maces are used in graduation ceremonies to demonstrate that a school has the legal authority to grant degrees. Auburn’s mace was created in fall 2015 from the wood of the beloved Auburn Oaks, representing the Board of Trustees’ legal authority and linking to a symbol that is laden with meaning to the Auburn Family. The Auburn mace is approximately 42 inches tall and is carried by the macebearer, one of the faculty leaders from the graduation committee.

GONFALONS

Gonfalons are banners that originated in medieval Italy to identify a state or office. At Auburn commencements, each college and school is represented by a unique gonfalon, carried into the ceremony by a student marshal selected from the graduating class. The university gonfalon is carried by the faculty marshal. Additionally, smaller gonfalons stand on the edge of the floor to designate the seating area for each participating college and school.

Owing much to the past, Auburn’s greater debt remains ever to the future.

Auburn University today is a comprehensive land-, sea- and space-grant institution—among the few that hold that distinction—occupying more than 1,840 acres and helping fulfill the dreams of more than 30,000 students. The university began, though, as the small, more humble East Alabama Male College, which was chartered in 1856 and opened its doors in 1859 as a private liberal arts institution. From 1861 to 1866, the college was closed because of the Civil War. The college had begun an affiliation with the Methodist Church before the war. Due to dire financial straits, the church transferred legal control of the institution to the state in 1872, making it the first land-grant college in the south to be established separate from the state university. It thus became the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Alabama.

A land-grant college or university is an institution that has been designated by its state legislature or Congress to receive the benefits of the Morrill Acts of 1862 and 1890. The original mission of these institutions, as set forth in the first

Morrill Act, was to teach agriculture, military tactics, mechanical arts as well as classical studies, so that members of the working classes could obtain a liberal, practical education.

Women were admitted in 1892, making Auburn the oldest four-year, coeducational school in the state and the second-oldest in the Southeast. In 1899, the name was again changed to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. In 1960, the school officially acquired the name it has long been called and one more in keeping with its location, size and mission—Auburn University. The institution has experienced its greatest growth since World War II, and now has more than 230,000 alumni and over 320,000 degrees awarded.

AUBURN UNIVERSITY – THE HISTORIC HOME OF THE AUBURN FAMILY

Chartered in 1856, Auburn University opened in 1859 and became affiliated with the Methodist Church. Throughout the years, the institution has held four official names:

- East Alabama Male College (1856-1872)
- Agricultural and Mechanical College (1872-1899)
- Alabama Polytechnic Institute (1899-1960)
- Auburn University (1960-present)

Auburn University at Montgomery (AUM) was established as a separately administered branch campus in 1967. The institution has developed rapidly, especially since moving to a 500-acre campus east of Montgomery in 1971. Fall 2019 enrollment at AUM was approximately 5,323.

ALMA MATER

On the rolling plains of Dixie
'Neath the sun kissed sky
Proudly stands our Alma Mater
Banners high.

To thy name we'll sing thy praise
From hearts that love so true
And pledge to thee our loyalty
The ages through.

We hail thee, Auburn, and we vow
To work for thy just fame,
And hold in memory as we do now
Thy cherished name.

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

O say can you see,
by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed
at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars,
through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched,
were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare,
the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night
that our flag was still there.
O say does that star-spangled
banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free
and the home of the brave?

NELDA LEE

During her impressive career as a trailblazing aerospace engineer, Nelda K. Lee has made remarkable and enduring contributions to the field of aeronautics and aviation. An inspirational leader, Lee continues to mentor and empower Auburn University students, especially women pursuing careers in engineering.

Raised on a farm in Carrollton, Alabama, Lee studied engineering at Auburn. While earning a bachelor's degree in aerospace engineering, Lee completed elective courses and earned her a private pilot's license. In 1969, she became the second woman to graduate from Auburn with a degree in aerospace engineering. Lee also earned a master's degree in management and human resource development from Webster University in St. Louis, Missouri, in 1999.

After graduation from Auburn, Lee began a prominent career with Heritage McDonnell Douglas Co., now a part of The Boeing Company, as an associate engineer. During her career with Heritage McDonnell Douglas, Lee was instrumental in designing, developing and testing several aircraft and was the first woman assigned to the flight test engineering department. Lee is the first civilian woman to fly the F-15 Eagle, logging more than an hour during testing. The F-15 has served as the U.S. Air Force's primary fighter jet aircraft and intercept platform for decades.

During Lee's 45 years of experience in mechanical and structural design, test and evaluation engineering and multi-skill engineering management, she was assigned to the DC-10, F-4, F-15, F/A-18, T-45, AV-8 and special programs. These assignments were at Edwards Air Force Base in California; Elgin Air Force Base in Florida; Mesa, Arizona; Naval Air Station Patuxent River in Maryland and Naval Air Weapons Station China Lake in California. In 2014, Lee retired as the senior test program manager at Boeing.

Throughout her career and during her retirement, Lee has remained a staunch advocate for women in the aerospace industry. She has generously shared her time and talents with various organizations, including Women in Aviation International, Whirly-Girls Inc., Ninety-Nines Inc., Auburn's Samuel Ginn College of Engineering, Raymond J. Harbert College of Business, College of Liberal Arts – Aviation and Music and the Auburn Alumni Association. In 2016, Lee was inducted into the Alabama Engineering Hall of Fame and received the Auburn Alumni Association Lifetime Achievement Award in 2017.

Lee was inducted into the Women in Aviation Pioneers Hall of Fame in 2004 and was recognized in the 2014 book "Trailblazers: The Women of the Boeing Company." Lee is an active member of the Women in Aviation International Founding Board of Directors, Whirly-Girls Emeritus Executive Board and Past International President and Ninety-Nines Board of Trustees and past Governor. She holds an FAA commercial pilot's license with multi-engine and helicopter ratings. In her spare time, Lee plays trumpet in the WAI Jazz Band, the St. Louis Community College Symphonic Band and the University City Summer Band.

CLARK SAHLIE

Clark Sahlie is a small business owner in Montgomery, Alabama. He served as the president of the Board of Trustees of The Montgomery Academy from 2010-2015. He currently represents the 2nd District on the Board of Trustees at Auburn University.

Sahlie earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from Auburn in 1988. He is married to Cindy Ayers Sahlie, a 1985 Auburn graduate, and has two sons, Will, a 2019 Auburn graduate, and Lee, a current Auburn student.

BILL HARDGRAVE

Bill Hardgrave began serving as Auburn University's provost and senior vice president for academic affairs in January 2018. As the university's chief academic officer and president of the Auburn Research and Technology Foundation, Hardgrave oversees the institution's instruction, research and outreach programs in all 12 colleges and schools. Before becoming provost, Hardgrave served as the dean and Wells Fargo Professor of the Raymond J. Harbert College of Business from August 2010 through December 2017. In that role, Hardgrave oversaw the growth of the college and launched the Auburn University RFID (radio frequency identification) Lab, the Geospatial Research and Applications Center and the Center for Supply Chain Innovation.

Prior to Auburn, Hardgrave held the Bradberry Chair in information systems in the Sam M. Walton College of Business at the University of Arkansas and served as executive director of the Information Technology Research Institute, which he established in 1999. He is an internationally recognized scholar in the field of information systems and has published several books and articles in leading academic journals.

HONORARY DOCTORATE OF SCIENCE

JAMES RALPH JORDAN, JR.

Like his father before him, Auburn football coaching legend Ralph “Shug” Jordan, James Ralph Jordan, Jr. has dedicated his life to making a difference, not only in his chosen profession, but also in his service to Auburn University. While humble in his many accomplishments, Jordan is quick to acknowledge that most of his success is attributable to the outstanding education he received while a student at Auburn.

Jordan, who received his bachelor’s degree in Biological Sciences in 1970, followed by a master’s degree in Zoology in 1975, is widely respected for not only his accomplishments as a conservation biologist, but also his shown outstanding leadership in support of the Auburn Alumni Association and the University’s College of Sciences Mathematics (COSAM).

In the early days of his thirty-two-year professional career with the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA), Jordan was responsible for performing field studies needed to ensure TVA compliance with various environmental laws, most notably the National Environmental Policy Act and the Endangered Species Act. During this time, he was unwavering in his commitment to identifying and protecting sensitive natural resources, especially threatened or endangered species populations, and rare, unique, or exemplary ecosystems. Over time, Jordan’s responsibilities were expanded to include programmatic planning and policy oversight for natural resources management activities affecting more than 300,000 acres of TVA-managed public land across seven Southeastern states. In recognition of Jordan’s many accomplishments, TVA presented him with its Bronze Honor Award prior to his retirement in 2007.

As a Life Member of the Auburn Alumni Association, Jordan served as a member of the Board of Directors from 2001 to 2010 and as President from 2006 to 2008. Under his leadership, the Association strengthened relationships within its network of local and regional Auburn Clubs, and fostered greater engagement between the university and its alumni. In addition, Jordan also represented the Association on the steering committee for the “It Begins at Auburn” capital campaign, and previously served on the Auburn Athletics Department’s Athletics Advisory Committee. Since 1994, he has been a member of the COSAM Alumni Leadership Council, and, in 2014, received the college’s Distinguished Alumnus Award.

As someone who spent most of his life studying and conserving biological diversity, Jordan recognizes the important role that Auburn University played in fostering his own conservation ethic. To promote this level of awareness in others, Jordan collaborated with the Biological Sciences faculty and the COSAM administration to establish Auburn’s Biodiversity Learning Center. The “Center,” which first opened its doors in 2013, is home to the Auburn University Museum of Natural History and houses more than 950,000 botanical, zoological, and paleontological specimens contained in the university’s scientific collections. The Center also provides much of the technical expertise needed to support COSAM’s outstanding sciences education outreach program. Today, almost 56 years after enrolling in his first Auburn classes, Ralph Jordan, Jr. spends his “free” time exploring the mountains surrounding his east Tennessee home, or restoring longleaf pine at his “family place” in the Sandhills region of central Georgia. Beyond that, what remains of Jordan’s time will always be spent in Auburn, working for the betterment of his beloved alma mater and cheering on the Tigers.

EAGLES Basic Program Certificate of Completion

"I believe in the human touch, which cultivates sympathy with my fellow men and mutual helpfulness and brings happiness for all."

-Auburn Creed

The Education to Accomplish Growth in Life Experiences for Success, or EAGLES Program, is a comprehensive transition program for students with intellectual disabilities. The program provides a postsecondary education opportunity for the students to engage in a two or four-year campus experience to help students achieve their employment and independent living goals.

The EAGLES program is a non-degreed program focusing on academic enrichment, personal and social skills, independent living skills, health and wellness, and integrated work experiences. Students in the program receive an inclusive postsecondary education providing them with an enriching and rewarding Auburn experience as they prepare to transition to gainful employment and independent living. Traditional college students who are a part of the WINGS (Warmhearted Individuals Nurturing Great Success) peer mentor program facilitate inclusion and mentorship across all domains of the program. The EAGLES program curricula are structured to help students become contributing members of society through their career interests both now and in the future.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Academic regalia worn during graduation is based on attire from the 12th and 13th centuries when universities were being established. Academic dress and accoutrements have been used in higher education in the United States since colonial times. In 1895, an intercollegiate commission adopted a standardized code for the use of academic gowns, hoods, and caps, which included regulation of style and materials. Colors were prescribed to represent different fields of learning. Since then, the majority of colleges and universities in the United States, including Auburn, have upheld the code.

GOWNS

Except for a few universities, academic gowns are all black. The bachelor's gown is the simplest of the three types. The master's gown is similar but has sleeves with an extra long extension. Representing the highest degree, the doctoral gown is fuller throughout and has pleated bell-shaped sleeves. It is trimmed with a velvet band that circles the neck and descends the front, and it has velvet bars on the sleeves.

ACADEMIC HOODS

Academic hoods have endured as the sign of a scholar, and increased symbolism through color and material. Master's hoods are edged in velvet in the color of the candidate's major field. The hood's satin lining shows Auburn's official colors. A doctoral hood is longer and larger than the master's. A doctor of philosophy's hood has dark blue velvet-bound edges and the doctor of audiology has green.

The orange and blue satin lining shows that the degree was conferred at Auburn University. The faculty who march in the academic processional show a range of colors marking their diverse fields, degrees, and institutions.

The traditional rule for academic hoods is that a candidate for a degree should not wear the hood until the degree is conferred. However, at Auburn, master's degrees are conferred en masse, therefore degree candidates wear hoods throughout the ceremony. Doctoral degree recipients are hooded by their major professor during the ceremony. These candidates do not wear the hood during the academic processional, but receive their hood when the degree is conferred.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

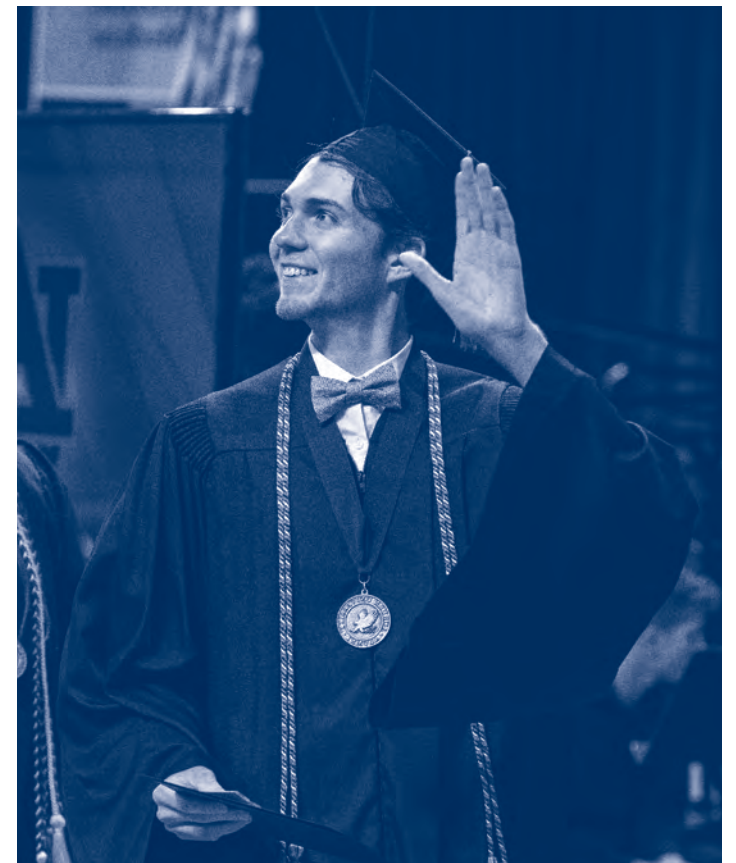

CAPS AND TASSELS

A black mortar board is the typical headwear worn, with some faculty wearing black tams. All caps have tassels. Students earning a bachelor's degree have tassel colors representing their fields. They begin the ceremony with the tassels on the right front side; after all degrees are conferred, they are instructed to move the tassels to the left side. Faculty and candidates for master's and doctoral degrees already wear their gold tassels on the left side.

STOLES, CORDS, AND MEDALS

In addition to the orange stoles worn by student marshals, some graduates wear regalia signifying academic achievements or membership in organizations, primarily academic honor societies. Students graduating summa cum laude, magna cum laude, or cum laude wear yellow cords. The Honors College recognizes its graduates with silver medals. Students inducted into Phi Kappa Phi, an honor society incorporating all fields of study, may wear cords of interwoven gold and blue. Some schools and colleges have honor societies unique to their discipline, and students selected for membership wear stoles, cords or medallions representing them. Like hoods, each color and pattern is unique to the honor.

ACADEMIC SYMBOLS

MACE

In ancient Rome, what would later be called a mace was carried at the head of processing civil authorities. By the Middle Ages, the Catholic Church similarly used a mace, which also became associated with the civil authority of monarchies. Today, the United Kingdom's House of Commons still presents a mace to mark the opening of daily sessions being open and legal. The U.S. House of Representatives adopted this practice in 1789, establishing the tradition of the Sergeant at Arms carrying the mace into the chamber to be placed near the Speaker of the House.

As an established symbol of authority, maces in the academic setting were adopted to show that a president represents the governing body of the school. Maces are used in graduation ceremonies to demonstrate that a school has the legal authority to grant degrees. Auburn's mace was created in fall 2015 from the wood of the beloved Auburn Oaks, representing the Board of Trustees' legal authority and linking to a symbol that is laden with meaning to the Auburn Family. The Auburn mace is approximately 42 inches tall and is carried by the macebearer, one of the faculty leaders from the graduation committee.

GONFALONS

Gonfalons are banners that originated in medieval Italy to identify a state or office. At Auburn commencements, each college and school is represented by a unique gonfalon, carried into the ceremony by a student marshal selected from the graduating class. The university gonfalon is carried by the faculty marshal. Additionally, smaller gonfalons stand on the edge of the floor to designate the seating area for each participating college and school.

Owing much to the past, Auburn's greater debt remains ever to the future.

Auburn University today is a comprehensive land-, sea- and space-grant institution—among the few that hold that distinction—occupying more than 1,840 acres and helping fulfill the dreams of more than 30,000 students. The university began, though, as the small, more humble East Alabama Male College, which was chartered in 1856 and opened its doors in 1859 as a private liberal arts institution. From 1861 to 1866, the college was closed because of the Civil War. The college had begun an affiliation with the Methodist Church before the war. Due to dire financial straits, the church transferred legal control of the institution to the state in 1872, making it the first land-grant college in the south to be established separate from the state university. It thus became the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Alabama.

A land-grant college or university is an institution that has been designated by its state legislature or Congress to receive the benefits of the Morrill Acts of 1862 and 1890.

Old Main

The original mission of these institutions, as set forth in the first Morrill Act, was to teach agriculture, military tactics, mechanical arts as well as classical studies, so that members of the working classes could obtain a liberal, practical education.

Women were admitted in 1892, making Auburn the oldest four-year, coeducational school in the state and the second-oldest in the Southeast. In 1899, the name was again changed to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. In 1960, the school officially acquired the name it has long been called and one more in keeping with its location, size and mission—Auburn University. The institution has experienced its greatest growth since World War II, and now has more than 230,000 alumni and over 320,000 degrees awarded.
