The College of Nursing (AUCON) is recognized as a leader in nursing education, ranking #1 in Alabama. Established in 1979, it admitted the first class of 27 juniors in the fall quarter of that year. The first Dean of the Nursing School was Mary F. Woody. AUCON has offered the BSN degree since the school began in 1979, graduating 24 students in its first class in 1981. The current dean, Dr. Gregg Newschwander, was appointed in January 2010. The college is housed in an 89,000-square-foot, leading-edge learning facility, which opened in 2017. The building is equipped with a variety of instructional spaces, a large and well-appointed skills laboratory, and a state-of-the-art simulation center. The new facility allowed for expansion of BSN enrollment and a corresponding increase in faculty and staff. The simulation suite at Auburn has earned full accreditation through the Society for Simulation in Healthcare. The 2022-23 budget showed $20 million in revenue from all sources. Recent increased attention to the research mission of the College has provided budgeting funding and infrastructure to enhance the faculty’s work.
