Facilities prepares for Allison demolition

OUR LAST SWEEP
THROUGH ALLISON
WE RECYCLED...

3,300
POUNDS OF PAPER

300
POUNDS OF CARDBOARD

Allison Laboratory is set for demolition in June. Before that can happen, the building needed to be cleaned out.

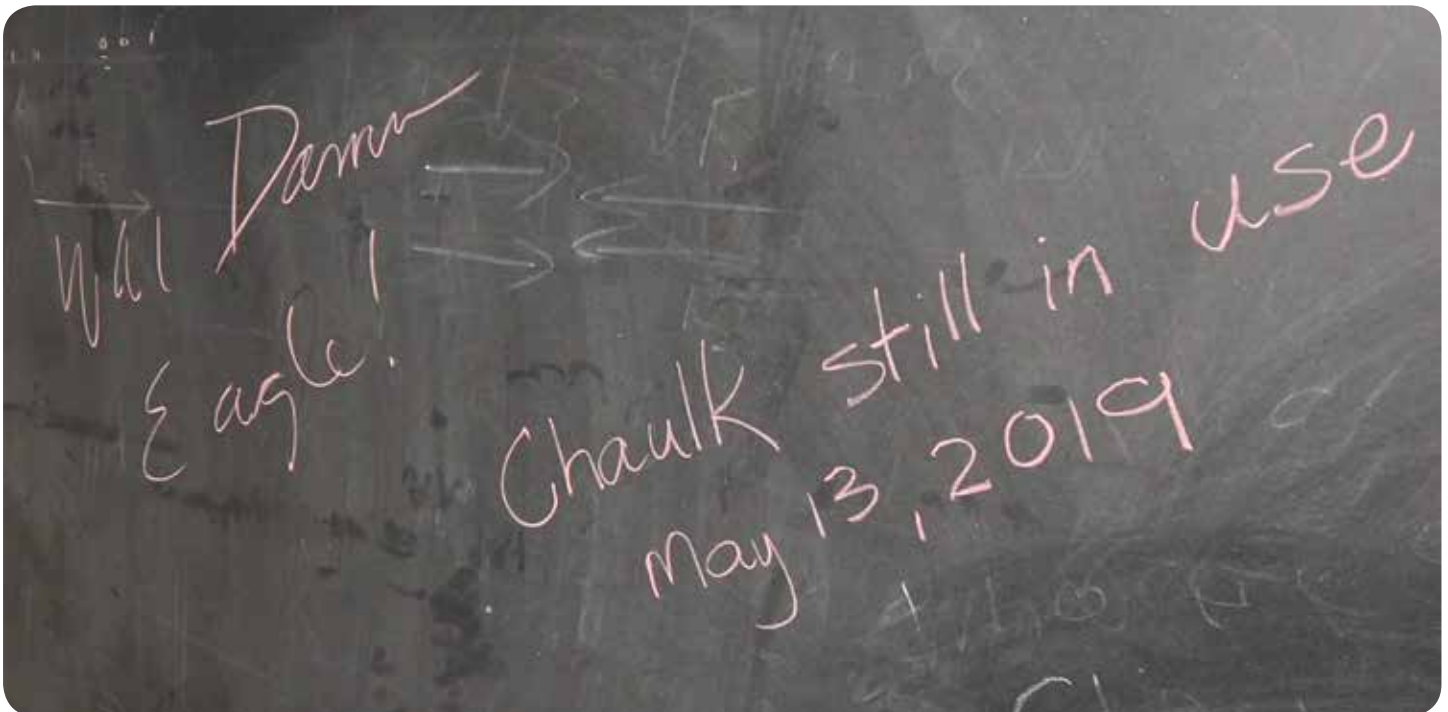

Joan Hicken, Manager of Waste Reduction and Recycling, and her crew recycled more than 3,300 pounds of paper and 300 pounds of cardboard during the clean out of the building.

Old textbooks, instruction booklets, term papers, handbooks and more were recycled rather than thrown in dumpsters.

Recycling one ton of paper saves about 17 mature trees; 7,000 gallons of water, and two barrels of oil.

Allison Laboratory was built in 1963 and named for Auburn physicist Dr. Fred Allison. Its demolition will enable space for the Academic Classroom and Laboratory Complex and Central Dining Hall. Parker Hall is set to be demolished in Spring 2022, following the completion of the two structures.

A video will be produced in the near future by Facilities Management Communications as a final goodbye to Allison Laboratory.

Facilities HR to provide feedback survey

Please be watching for the upcoming Facilities Human Resources Employee Survey. This survey will provide all Auburn University Facilities Management employees with the opportunity to give meaningful feedback regarding the Facilities Human Resources Department.

The members of the Facilities HR

staff want to know how they are doing in their efforts to better serve Facilities employees. Your input and your suggestions will be completely anonymous and confidential. Also, your participation will be strictly on a voluntary basis.

The survey will be distributed in electronic form by email and in paper form in each department with sealed envelopes available for your convenience.

We hope you will participate in this survey. Your thoughts and your suggestions are very important to us!
