JOB SUMMARY

Reporting to the Assistant Director, Curatorial Affairs, the Museum Registrar facilitates the use, care, and maintenance of all works of art and associated records stewarded by The Jule Collins Smith Museum of Fine Art, the university's on-campus teaching museum. Liaising with all stakeholders across the museum, the position particularly works collaboratively on collection-related projects, including opportunities for teaching and learning with the collection in museum spaces and temporary exhibitions; and on exhibition-related matters.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Assumes responsibility for the long-term storage and care of all objects, including public art on university property in the art collection stewarded by the museum. Oversees both on-site and off-site collection storage and the movement of collection objects for exhibition, loan, or use in museum study rooms. Supervises the conservation and preservation of artwork, implementing priorities, ensuring continued review and mitigating future conservation needs. Monitors all spaces and environments housing the collection. Generates and maintains current facility reports, including for prospective private and institutional lenders, works with the Director of Operations on questions related to all spaces and environments housing the collection. Completes regular inventory spot-checks and maintains a current appraisal of the collection in accordance with the collection management policy. Receives, inspects, and conducts condition reports for all incoming objects on loan to the museum. Consults on other issues related to incoming loans. Updates insurance information, including updates to the permanent collection and outgoing or incoming loans.
- Manages all object records and documentation associated with the permanent collection, including photography of objects. Maintains the collection database, determining and implementing data entry standards and procedures; inputs data and photography in a timely and consistent manner; trains and supports staff users and creates and maintains their accounts; conducts data entry checks to ensure quality assurance; spearheads and participates in data cleaning efforts; and serves as the liaison with software representatives. Writes and maintains a data entry user manual. Assumes responsibility for digitizing images, creating reports, metadata development, periodic software upgrades, system migrations and security, and public access on the museum website. Oversees day-to-day object tracking of all works in the collection database. Initiates requisite collections documentation, assigns object numbers, and records all temporary, permanent, and off-site storage locations. Remains current on best practices regarding art collections and technology, and the museum's collection management system specifically.
- Collaborates with the Manager of Academic Engagement to develop dynamic checklists for use by faculty, staff, and students in a range of academic disciplines. Recommends appropriate engagement methods to ensure safety of artwork and adherence to museum standards. Manages course engagement with collection objects, either in person or virtually, and assists with associated publication needs.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Manages the smooth and timely acquisitions review process. Receives, prepares, and catalogs new acquisitions, including assisting and coordinating with all requisite museum staff. Creates object files and generates receipts and other paperwork specific to the acquisition of collection objects.
- Collaborates with guest scholars as well as curatorial and education colleagues to conduct regular research on collection objects and to share new information. Identifies opportunities for additional research and publication related to collection objects. Updates object files with new research and information.
- Represents the museum through various public programs and other professional development workshops, seminars, and conferences. May identify supplemental funding to support exhibitions and the collection, including preparing proposals and grant applications for initiatives or other special projects.
- Trains and supervises student staff, graduate assistants, and interns performing work related to the collection and/or in galleries.
- Manages or initiates other special projects or initiatives as requested or as they arise.
- Performs other related duties assigned.
