JOB SUMMARY

Reporting to the Director of Education, Engagement, and Learning, the Academic Engagement Manager advances a range of teaching, learning, and research activities that connect the Jule Collins Smith Museum of Fine Art across campus and facilitates cross-disciplinary learning and engagement opportunities with faculty, students, and staff. Assists with designing, developing, expanding, facilitating, and evaluating all university engagements, including course engagement for classes teaching with objects. Leads student-centered programming, including the museum's Student Advisory Board and Student Guide corps. Working collaboratively with colleagues in the Education, Engagement, and Learning unit, the manager establishes and nurtures current and new connections between the museum and faculty, student, and staff with other academic institutions.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Facilitates diverse teaching, learning, and research activities related to the art collection and exhibitions at the museum for Auburn faculty, students, and staff, with a particular focus on interdisciplinary collaborations. Develops academic engagement opportunities for the museum Study Room as well as virtual and in-person opportunities for course engagement with the current exhibitions on view; and contributes to new online and digital resources published by the museum that align with the mission of the university.
- Conceptualizes, develops, and implements new teaching and learning opportunities at the museum for college and university partners at other academic institutions such as Tuskegee University and Auburn University at Montgomery, utilizing the museum's permanent collection and temporary exhibitions as a resource to support learning objectives. Develops both in-person and online and digital tools that connect the museum and our collection to college-level academic institutions outside of Auburn University in support of their teaching and learning goals.
- Manages the museum Student Guide and Student Advisory Board programs, supervising undergraduate students in their work and volunteer efforts, organizing and leading training and discussion sessions, facilitating meetings and group discussions, and developing strategies for evaluation and assessment of tour engagements and other initiatives. Working in collaboration with unit colleagues, the manager recruits, trains, mentors, and supervises students throughout their time with the museum.
- Serves as an active member of the Education, Engagement and Learning unit, collaborating with colleagues in forming and successfully working to shape museum-generated projects. Participates in museum trainings and other professional development opportunities to maintain an awareness of current practices.
- Works collaboratively with colleagues in other museum units, including Communications and External Relations to write, edit, and review public-facing material for campus engagement.
- Contributes to development and fundraising initiatives-including identifying grant opportunities, drafting proposals and other funding requests, and managing and reporting for grants-centered on innovative academic engagement and campus partnerships.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Participates in ongoing efforts to develop museum plans, to include strategic, collections, interpretive, and Diversity, Equity, Accessibility, and Inclusion (DEAI) aspects.
- Represents the museum when needed (regionally, statewide, and nationally) and makes appropriate contributions to professional communities and wider publics, including local, regional and/or statewide community organizations; museum and University committees; and national and international scholarly and professional organizations.
- Performs other related duties as assigned.

SUPERVISORY RESPONSIBILITIES

Supervisory Responsibility	May be responsible for training, assisting or assigning tasks to others. May provide input to performance reviews of other employees.
