THIS MONTH IN DEI

NOVEMBER

IS NATIVE AMERICAN HERITAGE MONTH

This month marks a critical time to educate people about native tribes and the unique challenges that Indigenous people have faced throughout their extensive history and how they have risen to the occasion to overcome these challenges. Auburn is committed to supporting the Indigenous members of its community and acknowledges the many Indigenous tribes native to Alabama, including the Muscogee Creek population that still calls the state home.

Auburn University Office of Inclusion and Diversity is committed to providing universal access to all of our events. Please email diversity@auburn.edu with event questions or any accommodations you will need.
